SERVANT GIRL QUESTION.

Some Reasons why Young American Wo-men will Not Accept Domestic Positions. A Rational Explanation.

"Fay Leo," in Pittsburgh Times: Why do our intelligent girls seek employment in stores, offices and factories when there are so many pleasant homes here they would be received as dowhere they would be received as do-mestics?" is a question which is very ramiliar to the public, and often accom-panied by a recital of the numerous ad-vantages of domestics' position, which are unhappily generally occupied by foreigners. The principal reason that domestic service is tabooed by our girls is that the work required of a servant in the majority of families is far be-yend the strength of the average Amer-tical girl. The majority of families comprise those of moderate means in our cities, which keep only one servant. comprise those of moderate means in our cities, which keep only one servant, In the homes of the rich in smaller towns the domestic's duties are comparatively light. This reason may be unsatisfactory to some because there is many a housewife who does all her own duties, but often when the same woman employs a servant, she is prone to make the work harder. The washings are larger—the work must all be done more thoroughly, because she reasons she is now paying for it. And she ne more thoroughly, because she reans she is now paying for it. And she poses tasks on the servant which she wer performed herself. A common use of this condition lies in the atmpt of so many families with a small come to regulate their homes like ose of the rich. Their one urse, errand girl and sometimes even servant must perform the duties of cook, launders, chambermaid, waitress, nurse, errand girl and sometimes even lady's maid, as well as they are performed in the homes of the wealthy by an entire retinue of servants. Even the stout German and Irish girls, often fall in this requirement and consequently we hear so many complaints of incompetent help, and the servant girl question becomes such a "problem."

The working hours of the girl behind the counter are from S.a. m. until 6 p. m., while those of the housemaid are often from 6 a. m. until 8 p. m., with no interval of rest. On washdays she must rise still earlier, so say all good-managing housewives. Even if she should be through with her work early enough in the evening to go out, many mistresses deny her the right to do so very often, and never without permission. She is, therefore, deprived of the freedom which is her birthright. Although they receive good warge, there is no class of girls so therefore, deprived of the freedom which is her birthright. Although they receive good wages, there is no class of girls so poorly dressed as the servant girls. One reason for this is that so few servants in the average family have time to do their plain sewling or to make the repairs and alterations necessary to every woman's wardrobe. And they are not allowed to go out often enough to be able to spend their money judiciously. The objection some American girls have to domestic service is that of being treated as an inferior. However, some intelligent girls might consider their relations with the mistress of a purely treated as an inferior, However, some intelligent girls might consider their relations with the mistress of a purely essiness nature, and that they gave them no right to social recognition. Such a girl would sit down alone at the kitchen table and partake of the cold remnants left from the family meal without grumbling, or go to her lonely room at night (possibly merely a dark, uncomfortable closet in the garret or basement), as cheerfully as her tired limbs would permit her, unmindful of the fact that the family is gathered in its cheerful sitting room, from where, perhaps, sounds of music and laughter and scraps of animated conversation reach her ears. But there are some things which no philosophy will enable an intelligent girl to bear. A tactful and kindly mistress can prevent a sirl from becoming obtrusive or familiar without wounding the latter's self-respect. But some "ladies" are not satisfied with a girl merely "knowing her place," but seem to take pleasure in making her feel the humility of her position. The a girl merely "knowing her place," but seem to take pleasure in making her feel the humility of her position. The servant must bear with her mistress' fits of anger in silence. Many women seem to think it would compromise their dignity to treat a servant girl with the same politeness and respect which they require of her. This may be right, but it is very trying to an independent, self-respecting girl.

It has been said that there is no situation in which a young girl's morals are as safe as that of a domestic in a private family. This may be true, but according to my observation there is no place where her reputation is as unsafe.

where her reputation is as unsafe, s always an object of suspicion. If She is always an object of susplcion. If an article is missing in the house where she is employed, she is nearly always adjudged the thief and perhaps discharged, while some times evidence of her innocence is afterward discovered. And we often hear of a girl whose honcesty is afterward proved being taken to jail on a charge of theft preferred by her mistress. The domestic must not indulge that love of pleasure which is so natural to the young, even if she should have sufficient leisure time. The mistress and her daughters may receive tress and her daughters may receive men friends and keep late hours, but if the servant does so her reputation is likely to suffer.

These conditions

These conditions, of course, do not exist in every home of the class mentioned. But they are common enough to make domestic service odious to the bright American girls. It is true that housewives are often imposed upon by insolent, impertinent and dishonest services. ts. But the employer's grievance constantly dinned into the public are constantly dinned into the public ear, while the employe's wrongs are scarcely ever voiced. A great defi of the energy which some philanthropic people are using for the purpose of rescuing fallen girls and suppressing vice might be used in striking at the root of the evil with better results—by making the path of virtue more attractive. For as long as domestics are treated in this way our homeless girls will seek employment in stores and offices at starvation wages, which will be in many cases supplemented with the wages of bin.

THE PHENOMENA OF SLEEP. The Nerves are Awake Even When We Are Asleep.

London Times: Considerable attention has been paid of late years to the taiure of the processes which occur in eep, and some definite results havbeen obtained by modern experimental science. It has long been known that ence. It has long been known that piration and the action of the heart to both modified in sleep. Breathing lower and shallower, and the amount carbonis acid eliminated is less than the waking state; the pulse is also wer. But Morso and other observers to recently shown that more promise that he had been as a second of the carpinate as altered, and the circulation ungoes an important modification, the changes the distribution of blood the body. The limbs are found to rease in volume owing to the relaxion of the blood vessels in the akin, ich permits a larger flow of blood of the surface of the body. This quite pords with the common experience a lessened power to resist cold dursleep. The blood is more distribution the skin, and therefore more exceed to chills. At the same time this aration of the outaneous vessels has a general fall of arterial presses by diminishing the resistance or result is a lessened blood flow ough the brain, which shrinks in une. This has been corroborated by direct observation and measurement of brains exposed by injuries to blood. It is found that they also should be a single proof is afforded by Morso's shieus balance, which permits a substitute of sleep when lying horisonrespiration and the action of the heart taily in a state of perfect equilibrium. In sleep the head tips up and the feet go down, indicating the distribution of blood in that direction; awakening is accompanied by the reverse. The same experiments have also proved that the nerves of sense are awake during sleep. They transmit impulses to the brain and recall it to activity. Thus a sound or a light will cause the pale, anaemic brain of the sleeper to flush and tips down the head end of the balance, and it does this before the sleeper awakens, even without awakening him if the stimulus be only slight. These observations show very prettily how the senses keep watch for the sleeping brain and how awaking is effected. They also glow that sleep does not affect the whole body.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Money on call easy at 11/62 per cent; last loan 2 per cent, Closed at 14:02 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3:04 per cent. Sterling exchange weak, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4 85%@4 85% for demand and at $4 821/2004 82% for sixty

Sugar was the one exception in the strength of the market at the opening, but its loss soon widened and heavier liquidation in the stocks set in, offerings being very heavy and active capport being of no avail to recover its losses. A rumor of an extra dividend was thoroughly discredited and yesterday's gain was in consequence completely wiped out before the announcement of the regular dividend. The stock was very feverish all day and fluctuated widely and frequently, but worked constantly towards a lower level and closed near the lowest at a net loss of 4% per cent. Total sales nearly 120,000 shares. Consolidated Gas was also a mark for the reactionists and dropped at one time 4½ points. The consequence was that the market was kept unsertled all day. When the general advance came to a stop, duliness intervened and there were frequent railles. Early in the final hour, prices of many stocks were at the best, but the final drop in sugar again weakened prices all around and left net gains confined to fractions in almost all cases and a fair sprinkling of losses through the list. One of these losses occurred in Minneapolis and St. Louis second preferred, which had been advanced in the morning on a rumor that the dividend was to be increased and which reacted on the announcement of the regular dividend. Union Pacific also was heavy on account of the steps taken by the government to qualify as a bidder at the Kansas Pacific sale. Other stocks inclined to heaviness were Western Union, Manhattan, Metropolitan Street Railway and New York Central. Southern preferred continued the advance which was begun on yesterday on rumors of an approaching dividend and rose at one time 1% per cent. To-bacco also developed late strength, but reacted before the close, Cleveland, Cincinnat, Chicago & St. Louis enjoyed the benefit of a favorable statement of earnings for the fourth week in November.

The markets were to-day inactive, but cheerful, the features being the buoyancy of Americans and Argentines. In the former the tone was entirely due to New York support. There was a good feeling here, but little action. So spathelic are dealers that Secretary Gage's currency plans had little effect. centive to buy came from the further decrease in the deliveries in the north-west and though other bullish news came in during the day, this proved the main sustaining factor throughout. For the first time shorts in December show-de real anxiety. December opened at 39c, or %c above yesterday's close. A little selling by the bull clique sufficed to put the price back to 38½c, but an hour later an attempt to buy a few lots put the price to $1 very quickly. The interest in the option did not then die out, as it did yesterday. More buying orders came in after a slight reaction, which put the price to $1 01. Again the bull crowd let go, but for the rest of the day December showed an affection for the dollar mark. There was good action in the May price also, due partly to the bidding up of December, partly to bull influences. May opened a shade over the Tuesday closing, at $9%c, and sold at once to 30c. The first hour found the price advanced ½c over last night to 90%f390½c. Then when the December went to $1 00, May sold at 90c. Bradstreets world's visible statement was a surprise and was influential in the high prices, both of December and May. It showed a decrease of 447,000 bushels, whereas the increase of at least 2,000,000 had been looked for. Corn was utterly indifferent to the advance in wheat and barely managed to hold its own. Outside of & little trading in May early in the day, there was almost nothing doing. Receipts were moderate, 550 cars, but country offerings showed an increase, and this country selling it caused the slight early advance to be lost. Cables were steady. Clearances amounted to 556,000 bushels. Shipping demand poor considering the nearness of the close of navigation. May ranged from 29½ to 28% and closed a shade lower at 25% c.

Oats, though quiet, were firm, helped by the strength of wheat. December showed especial firmness, having ½ advance at one time. There was some covering by shorts in that option. Commission houses were moderate buyers of May, as were elevator concerns, Bradstreets showed a visible increase of 307,000 bushels, about the only bearish influence. Receipts were 304 cars. May 8

Provisions were weak from the start. Hog receipts were much larger than expected and heavy selling by Cudahy helped to further weaken the market. Local operators and packers took the offerings. CHICAGO—Trade in cattle was very dull and buyers were unusually exacting, as there were a good many lots of attractive looking corn fed cattle. Prices were very irregular and averaged 15@20c lower than at the close of last week with sales of common dressed beef steers at $3.50@2.75 and really good shipping cattle at $4.25@4.50. Choice beeves sold around $4.75 and fancy Christmas cattle were nominal around $5.10@5.40. The bulk of the sales today were much below $5.45, many lots selling for much less than country shippers paid for them. Stockers and feeders were in large supply and averaged 10@20c lower than fast week, as did butchers and canners stuff, while very few calves went over $6.25. Great numbers of cattle were left unsold. Buyers of hogs succeeded in supplying their wants at an average reduction of 5c from yesterday's prices. Sales were largely at $3.30@3.40, coarse and heavy packers selling at $3.15@3.25 and prime shipping lots at $3.40@3.45. Pigs sold mostly at $3.15@2.40.
